BGSU named to list of Top 100 buys

□ The University recently made Kiplinger's list as one of the top 100 public universities in the United States.

By BRANDI BARHITE
The BG News

It is official, Bowling Green State University is moving up in rank and making a name for itself.

The University has been honored as one of the top 100 public universities in the United States for offering a quality education at reasonable costs.

"It is always neat when we make a list. It is nice to know that they know you exist and think highly of you," Steven Richardson, vice provost of undergraduate affairs, said.

Kiplinger's Personal Finance Magazine compared 200 institutions, but only ranked the top 100 on the basis of costs, quality as reflected by graduation rates, admission and retention rates, caliber of library holding, SAT/ACT scores and financial aid measures.

The University tied for 96th with West Virginia University. Only three other Ohio universities were listed, Miami (30th), Ohio University (38th) and Ohio State (82nd).

Charles Middleton, provost and vice president for academic affairs, said it is an honor for the University to be included in the list. He said the University is moving up and on its way to even higher standings.

Middleton said the University strives to have quality faculty with an emphasis on the faculty/student relationship.

Theatre auditions slated for 1998/99

□ The University theatre department is holding auditions for fall shows.

By IRENE SHARON SCOTT
The BG News

With the semester just beginning, the University's theatre department is starting auditions for the various dramas and musicals to be performed this year.

According to the theatre department, they welcome new faces and urge participation on and off the stage throughout the year.

Taylor Doherty, theatre graduate assistant, said the theatre department presents a variety of plays, ranging from new plays to classical musicals. He also said several scripts written by students may be a part of the Shorts Festival 1999. Doherty said it is traditional to perform at least one musical a year.

According to F. Scott Regan, coordinator of undergraduate studies, the directors look for individuals who are alert, flexible, able to follow directions and cooperative. Regan said actors must have skills including the ability to project their voices and movements to convey emotions. "Acting in a play is a good opportunity and there are vast openings, which include positions on and behind the stage," Regan said. "Behind-the-stage positions can go from helping out with lighting to costumes."

Regan also said directors look for specific traits when determining a person for a part, including height, race or size. Regan said individuals are chosen for their skills and availability.

Regan said the audition process varies from director to director. He said the basis for all auditions is filling out an appli-

Midwest Stamping shut down during strike negotiations

□ Disagreements over wage and pension increases lead to a strike at a local plant.

By MIKE WENDLING
The BG News

Napoleon Road residents can sometimes hear a low, dull thumping noise in the night. Since shortly after midnight on Saturday, however, the noise has been gone. Its source, the Midwest Stamping plant at 513 Napoleon, has been shut down by striking workers.

When asked about the roots of the dispute between workers and management, employee and union member Paul Drain had a simple answer.

"Money," he said.

More specifically, the striking workers want more than a 25 cent wage increase over three years, according to United Auto Workers Local 4444 representative Rick Hoffman. He added that the company, Midwest Stamping Inc., only wants to apply the raise to select employees.

"Pensions are also an issue," said Hoffman. Management has refused to increase pension rates for the plant's 125 unionized workers.

City

Workers have been taking turns picketing outside of the plant, carrying signs and encouraging passing drivers to honk their horns in support of the strike.

"How long we're out here depends on them [management]," said Drain. "For now, they don't want to budge."

Hoffman stated that the plant's production capability has been entirely shut down, and that management was relying on a "strike bank" of built-up inventory to

Library sponsors first diversity reception

□ A recent Multicultural Affairs reception welcomed international students.

By BRANDI BARHITE
The BG News

When it comes to promoting diversity and positive racial relations, there is no stopping the University.

Diversity

Last week the libraries and learning resources/Multicultural Affairs Committee kicked off the semester with the ninth annual reception for multicultural and international students and announced their intention to continue to strongly examine issues of diversity.

Mary Wrighten, director of the Multicultural Affairs Committee, said this reception is the University's effort to welcome multicultural and international students to the campus. She said it is important for the University to continue to make students and faculty aware of diversity issues.

"The University has taken steps with the issue of diversity, but not steps all at one time. We have learned that diversity is a continual thing," Wrighten said.

Jerome Library will again sponsor an annual "Issues in Cultural Diversity" series. This year's series will be entitled, "All in the Name of Religion: Diversity and Discard."

Mary Beth Zachary, member of the Multicultural Affairs Committee, said there are certain myths and stereotypes about "minority" religions, and members of those religions often pay the price of discrimination.

"We asked for and solicited suggestions and religion is an issue the University wants to address," Zachary said.

Personal exposure left undeveloped

Ever since Comedy Central decided to deluge its viewers with multiple showings of PCU last weekend, all I've been able to think is, "Why the hell don't we have a naked guy who shows up at parties?" I don't know. Maybe one day soon I'll become that naked guy and all will be right in the utopia of BGSU once more. But for right now, I have the next best thing: a bizarre story that also manages to tie in a message and point at the end.

Over the summer, I snapped a few photos of various items. Included in them were a few pictures of my privates. Now I know the first question a person asks when reading or hearing this fact is, "Why?" For the purpose of this column, "why" doesn't matter a whit. If it really matters to you, e-mail me and I'll explain.

The point, though, is that when I took my roll of film to be developed, I had pictures of, ah, hot dogs and buns in there and when I got the developed pictures back, I was shy a few. What had replaced them was a small note stating that certain pictures were not given to me because of certain store policies that the business had.

I wrote the business and asked why it was or which specific policies based on what logic prevented them from giving me back property showing my own nude body parts. They responded a few weeks later with a form letter thanking me for my suggestions and blah blah blah. So I wrote them again, putting on my serious face this time and although I still haven't heard from them, to be fair, I think they did make an effort to call me, albeit at the wrong phone number.

What bothers me about not getting those pictures doesn't have anything to do with pride. I've seen myself naked before. It's not that great a sight, let me tell you. I've seen lions copulating on the Discovery channel that have made for more arousing viewing than my nude form.

The problem that I have with this is it's just another sign of this puritanical nation we live in when it comes to sexual matters. I'm not here to debate when art becomes pornography, mostly because I just don't know.

I'm not sure if my pictures constituted pornography. Although I can say my intentions were not to sell them or in any way force them on other people. I know they weren't art, so I believe they fit in somewhere in between.

So what's the problem with a swinging cat like myself wanting to have a few pictures of my lesser-seen accessories?

I've tried to cover every avenue. The store may have worried it was child porn. Well, yeah, that's a semi-valid concern, but what about the pictures my parents have of me standing in a kiddie pool naked? Or even worse, the picture I've got hanging up in my room where my dad posed me, butt naked, on a shag blanket, with a Playboy in front of me at the age of 6? That's not good.

If it's somehow illegal, then I fail to understand the logic that keeps these pictures from me, but develops and gives to me pictures within the same roll where people are visibly gathered around a bong. Or what about the numerous pictures I'm sure we have of our drinking exploits? Isn't that illegal as well?

If it was going to offend anyone, I simply would have told those developing the pictures what was on the roll of film so they could find someone who wouldn't be offended.

In this day and age where for some reason we think it's our business whether the President is having consensual sex with other women, I start to see a disturbing trend which for no explicable reason disallows people to enjoy their nudity and/or sexual experiences in the privacy of their own company.

In my opinion, nudity and sex are not dirty little secrets we need to hide and ignore throughout our daily lives. They're natural parts of existence which may vary both in perception and enjoyment from person to person, but nevertheless deserve to be recognized in a mature and responsible fashion.

Student Disgusted with USG President's Stand on Parking

I am writing in response to the article published on August 31, 1998, detailing USG President Kevin Hussey's position on the parking lot changes. I feel that Mr. Hussey's response leaves much to be desired in light of his responsibility as the elected leader of an organization that is supposed to provide a representative voice for undergraduate students.

In reading Mr. Hussey's statements, I found no reason to believe that he is interested in representing the undergraduate population. In fact, what I saw was someone whose own opinions took precedence over the opinions of those he is supposed to represent. We elected Mr. Hussey because, presumably, we felt he would make decisions in accord with the needs and feelings of the majority of the undergraduate student body. In this article, he stated, with no qualifications, "If they try a class rank proposal, I'll veto it." I found no indication that any attempt was made on his part to find out what other students thought. While I will admit that I have not obtained a representative sample, a majority of the reactions I have seen, overheard, and read in the BG News have indicated that students are unhappy with this change, and would like to see the parking lots divided by class again. In fact, several students were so unhappy they took the initiative to speak with administrators themselves.

I would hate to see such efforts negated by a USG president who does not feel obliged to represent the people who elected him. I think that undergraduate students need to demand that Mr. Hussey find out what their opinion is, perhaps through means of a survey, and that he stand up for that opinion when dealing with our administrators. Whatever that position turns out to be, at least we will know that it does not belong solely to Mr. Hussey, but instead will be a representative opinion of the undergraduate student body. If Mr. Hussey is unwilling to do this, I encourage administrators to do so, and to not give the opportunity to Mr. Hussey to veto a proposal that he may not personally agree with. Perhaps such an action would serve to remind the president of USG that he is expected to represent all undergraduates, not just himself.

USG President clarifies his position on campus parking

In the spirit of reaching out to the student body in order to better serve its interests, I would like to take this opportunity to clarify my opinion on the current parking situation. To my mind, the parking debate is not about class rank, but instead safety. When I said I would oppose any parking compromise that was based solely on class, I meant it. My primary and overriding concern is with the safety of all students. Any student who needs to use their car for educational purposes, such as student teachers or MCO nursing students, to travel to and from work, or because they are a Resident Advisor, needs to have a safe, reliable parking spot close to where they live. The danger for a senior returning from work late at night and having to park out in Lot 6 is the same as the danger to a freshman. So when I said I would oppose a compromise based solely on class, I meant it. I can give my full support only to a compromise that protects the safety of all students. I believe that this is reasonable.

I would also like to thank the special committee of students that have done so much to address this issue. I'd like to thank them for coming to this year's first USG meeting held Monday night. They did an excellent job of expressing their concerns. I want to thank them, and especially Senator Brent Merriman for their courtesy. I know that together with these students, the Undergraduate Student Government can help to find a successful compromise to the parking situation. I applaud their activism, and hope that once this issue is resolved they will continue their efforts to help better our University. The efforts of these students is an example we can all learn from.

HOROSCOPE

Today's Birthday (Sept. 3) — Work is a challenge this year. You're learning more than earning, but don't complain. You're gaining valuable confidence. December won't go as planned, so stay flexible. Your dreams are most likely to come true in January. A work-related surprise in February is to your advantage, if you keep your goals in mind. A partner puts in a good word for you in March, and the old rule works best in May. Remember what you've learned when you face pressure in August. To get the advantage, check the day's rating: 10 is the easiest day, 0 the most challenging.

Aries (March 21-April 19) — Today is a 6 — Something you've been thinking about replacing could be fixed instead. You don't know how, but a friend does. If you need to pay this person, it might be worth the money, but a trade is also possible. It looks like you have something this other person needs, too.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) — Today is a 5 — Don't be dismayed if you run into an obstacle today. Life is full of obstacles, but they're only there to make us stronger. You might as well look at it like that. They're made to be dissolved, climbed over, crawled around or somehow managed. Think of them as building blocks and treat them accordingly.

Gemini (May 21-June 21) — Today is a 5 — A foreigner may have just the answer you're looking for — regarding your home or someone you live with, or a different way of looking at the situation there. Let people know what's going on with you. How else can they give you their sage advice?

Cancer (June 22-July 22) — Today is a 6 — There's no shortage of money out there. All you have to do is find a need and fill it. You're good at that, too. Did you know that Cancer is the sign of the multimillionaire? It's not just because you're good at taking care of other people. It's also because you hold on to what you have.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) — Today is a 5 — A partner is giving you a shove in the right direction. This person has more of an analytical mind than you do, and is the one to help you plan your next move. Today, it looks like he or she has some very good advice, and some confrontational but supportive coaching, too. Listen carefully. Take notes, if necessary.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — Today is a 6 — You have a greater sense of your own destiny, which is good, but the work is getting more difficult. You may not have time to meet with your friends today, but stay in touch. You need their encouragement and support. That's especially true of an older person who lives far away. That one will help you stay centered. Make the call.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) — Today is a 6 — The dream you had last night could come true. It was probably a nice one, so don't worry if you can't remember it. You might run into a problem early in the day, but don't let that get you down. A surprising romantic development later makes everything else seem insignificant.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 21) — Today is a 5 — There's a situation to deal with at home. Something may be breaking down, or somebody wants to spend hours in seemingly meaningless conversation. The problem is that both you and the other person are set in your ways. If you can't reach a compromise, a stalemate might have to do.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) — Today is a 6 — If education is what you need in order to take the next step, you're in luck. This is an excellent day to start a new study program. It doesn't matter whether you go to school or pick up a book at the library. The point is that you're willing to take on something that once looked too difficult to tackle.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — Today is a 6 — Looks like you have bills to pay. While you're at it, throw in something just for fun. How about a down payment on a cruise? Even if you have to wait before you can go, start planning now. It's the carrot dangling at the end of the stick that's keeping you motivated. Make it a big, fat, juicy one!

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) — Today is a 5 — You need to follow through on something you've already begun. That could be paying off a debt. Looks still like you're negotiating something that will improve the quality of life at home, so don't worry about it. It's a tough decision and there are lots of variables, but you're good at making tough decisions.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20) — Today is a 5 — What you're learning now is pretty technical in nature. You might even have to read the manual to find out what's going on. This is not your favorite thing to do, but don't despair. It might go slowly, but the more you can manage to grasp now, the easier your life will be in the future.

Earl veers toward Florida

COURTHOUSE SHOOTING

No one injured in courthouse shooting

MARIETTA, Ohio (AP) — A former Washington County jail guard ran through downtown firing a handgun wildly into the air, police said.

Michael Shrader, 37, of Marietta, has been charged with felonious assault after shooting several parked cars and threatening pedestrians during the Tuesday afternoon rush hour.

No one was injured during the four-minute shooting spree that ended when a Marietta patrolman drew his revolver on Shrader and ordered him to drop the weapon. Shrader complied but struggled with the officer while being handcuffed.

The episode began outside the Washington County Courthouse when Shrader allegedly fired one shot from a 9mm semiautomatic handgun.

Sgt. Rick Meek said Shrader then cut across several parking lots shooting at cars.

"Overall, he pointed the gun at three people and threatened to kill two," he said.

Sheriff Robert Schlicher said investigators have interviewed Shrader to determine a possible motive, but he would not reveal what they learned.

Shrader was fired in 1990 from his job as a jail guard but that apparently had nothing to do with the shooting rampage, Schlicher said.

□ Tropical storm Earl is expected to blast Florida coast.

The Associated Press

PANAMA CITY BEACH, Fla. — Thousands of people fled the Gulf Coast on Wednesday as Tropical Storm Earl strengthened into a hurricane and veered toward Florida with drenching rain and wind up to 100 mph.

The storm center was expected to come ashore during the night somewhere around Panama City, then cut across Georgia and into South Carolina, with 10 inches of rain possible.

A hurricane warning was posted for about 320 miles of coastline, from Pascagoula, Miss., to a point near Tallahassee.

Islands off Tallahassee were under mandatory evacuation orders. Many people also left Santa Rosa Island, east of Pensacola, at the recommendation of condo and hotel managers, and a state park closed on St. George Island, connected to mainland by a single bridge. Evacuations were recommended in flood-prone areas elsewhere.

the recommendation of condo and hotel managers, and a state park closed on St. George Island, connected to mainland by a single bridge. Evacuations were recommended in flood-prone areas elsewhere.

In nearby Franklin County, officials recommended 10,000 residents leave the area.

Gov. Lawton Chiles declared a state of emergency, and a tornado watch covered more than half of Florida's 67 counties.

Traffic built up on coastal roads as people heeded the warnings.

"We decided to run for higher ground," said Eleanor Griffin, 70, of Dothan, Ala., who cut short a four-day family vacation on Santa Rosa Island.

Rain fell across northern Florida and the southern edges of Alabama and Georgia during the afternoon as the storm drew near. High surf flooded several homes on Alabama's Dauphin Island.

HOUSING SETTLEMENT

Toledo settles lawsuit with housing group

TOLEDO (AP) — The city said on Wednesday it will withdraw restrictions it placed on group homes for elderly disabled people as part of an agreement with the U.S. Justice Department.

The city was facing three lawsuits that accused it of discriminating against people with disabilities.

The Justice Department had filed a lawsuit earlier Wednesday that alleged the City Council used a zoning regulation that discriminated on the basis of disability and illegally required the group homes to meet space requirements not placed on other group homes.

Jim Burkhardt, the city's lead attorney, said the city wanted to avoid a lawsuit and come to an agreement that all sides could accept. He said City Council members thought the original proposals from the group homes were unclear.

"It wasn't that council was discriminating against the disabled or elderly," he said.

The city also will pay $95,000 in damages.

Kaptur calls on President Clinton to choose 'honorable course' during Lewinsky scandal □ Kaptur only alludes to Clinton's possible resignation.

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP) — In light of the Monica Lewinsky scandal, Democratic Rep. Marcy Kaptur on Wednesday called on President Clinton to choose the "honorable course" and ...

Well, she doesn't exactly say.

Kaptur, who is from Toledo and represents the 9th District in northwest Ohio, gave a speech in San Antonio that can be read as making a case for Clinton to resign, but without ever mentioning the R-word. So far, only one Democrat in Congress, Rep. Paul McHale of Pennsylvania, has called on Clinton to resign.

"Now, it appears the country is to be subjected to many more months of public anguish as he tries to right a situation that holds no credible explanation nor easy exit..." Kaptur said at the national convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

"I respectfully urge the president to choose an honorable course and do what is right for our nation."

But in a telephone interview Wednesday night, Kaptur said she was not calling on the president to resign.

"The more important word to me is restitution," she said. "The emphasis should be on the young people, and how he as a father of a daughter and father of the nation can exact some good of the situation. I am very concerned about the residue left on the values of our youth."

Train carrying hazardous chemicals derails in Kansas

□ The chemicals caught fire, shutting down the entire town of Hazelton Wednesday morning.

The Associated Press

HAZELTON, Kan. (AP) — A train carrying hazardous chemicals derailed and caught fire, forcing the evacuation of this south-central Kansas town.

No one was injured in the derailment, but four cars carrying the chemicals derailed about 6:30 a.m., and three of them overturned into a ditch and caught fire.

"The whole town is shut down," said Andrew Kuhr, who works at the OK Co-op in Hazelton. "Shortly before I left town, you could taste it. It was sort of a bitter bite on the tongue. It didn't seem serious, but I could tell I shouldn't be breathing it."

About 200 people were evacuated from the town, which is in adjoining Barber County, several miles southwest of the accident. Officials also evacuated residents in a 5- to 7-mile radius surrounding Hazelton.

A National Guard helicopter was brought in to dump water on the train fire, but authorities didn't start using it right away because they were trying to figure out which chemical was in which of the overturned cars, said Joy Moser, a spokeswoman for the Kansas Adjutant General's office, which oversees the National Guard. Some of the chemicals could explode in contact with water, she said.

Firefighters and response teams from the Environmental Protection Agency and other agencies couldn't get within a mile of the fire, even with breathing equipment and protective suits, Lereg said.

The train was carrying nitric acid, alcohol, sodium hydroxide solution and isopropyl palmitate, Burlington Northern and Santa Fe Railway Co. officials said.

Of those substances, fumes from the nitric acid could pose the greatest threat to people living near the crash, University of Kansas chemistry professor John Landgrebe said. They are harmful to the skin and eyes, he said.

The sheriff's office went door to door, made phone calls and used CB radios to evacuate the residents, said Diana Corbett, an employee at the Harper County Sheriff's office. Residents were sent to the town halls in nearby Anthony and Kiowa, she said.

The train was traveling from Chicago to Los Angeles. The main line was expected to be blocked for at least 24 hours.

fill orders. The plant produces parts for Ford, Nissan and other auto makers.

Bruce Thompson, Interim Plant Manager, had no comment except to state that negotiations with the Union have been scheduled for 10 a.m. today. A press release described the company as "disappointed".

"Midwest Stamping has been bargaining in good faith and this work stoppage has come as a surprise to us," the release said.

Hoffman said that he was hoping to make some progress at today's meeting.

"We don't feel like we're asking much, and I guess we'll find out more about management's position when we sit down and talk with them."

The Bowling Green plant is one of four plants the company owns, and the only one that is unionized, according to Hoffman.

Plant employee Phil Wohler said that the company has previously stated that $5 million has been invested in its plants.

"But only $500,000 of that money has been put into this plant. We want to know where the rest of the money went," Wohler said.

Hoffman was clear about the union's worst-case scenario.

"Our biggest fear," said Hoffman, "is that they come in with the attitude that they want to close the plant up for good."

Mike Walsh, director of admissions, said this honor will encourage students to consider attending the University. He said many students refer to rankings when deciding where to attend college. He said being noted by a reputable magazine will demonstrate that the University provides a high caliber education.

"It doesn't guarantee students will come to the University, yet people who are thinking about us will definitely consider us," Walsh said.

Bill Knight, director of Institutional Research, also said it is nice to be recognized, yet he said it is difficult to determine how the universities were selected for this list.

Knight said this honor will improve the University spirit and morale, yet more important than the list is how the University educates its students.

"We pride ourselves on the fact that students leave here better than when they came," said Knight. "They know more and we give them value. To us it is more important to have quality teachers and a good learning environment."

Knight also said magazines often do not take into consideration what the University values. He said the University is more concerned with educating students, as opposed to their SAT/ACT scores.

"We have our own core values, educating students foremost, and the survey is not always reflective upon that," said Knight. "We have good students, but not Yale and Harvard students."

The rankings, cited in the article "State Universities to Cheer About," appear in the September issue.

Wrighten said there is a need to discuss both the major and minor religions that are represented at the University. She said more sensitivity and awareness need to be taught about religion.

Zachary said the group wants to demonstrate what it is like to be part of a minority religion.

She said the library initially began the series to educate the library staff. Soon after, the group decided to open their discussions to the University community to begin a dialogue.

The next program will be held on Wed. Oct. 28 and will address the topic "What it is like to be a member of a religious minority in America." The session will take place in the Jerome Library Pallister Conference Room from 10 a.m. - noon.

UCS helps with uncooperative computers

□ If there is a question about computers, the Computer Services Help Center can help students answer it.

"The Help Center does a wonderful job; they field many, many questions."

Toby Singer
computer services

The BG News

University Computer Services provides services for the University community through supporting several levels of computer systems.

One of the services provided by UCS is the Computer Help Center, which opened three years ago to assist students with their questions about computers, according to Duane Whitmire, Computer Help Center analyst.

Students can call the Computer Help Center with questions at 372-0999 or go to Hayes Hall.

The number of questions the help center gets makes it impossible for the consultants to answer every question, according to Toby Singer, interim executive director of University Computer Services and Telecommunications Services.

"The Help Center does a wonderful job; they field many, many questions," Singer said.

Pat Kania, Computer Help Center manager, said if questions are above the technical level of the consultants, students are referred to a second line of support, which includes members of the other areas of computer services.

"Our department is a combination of student help and full-time help," Singer said.

Consultants field a variety of questions, including how to connect computers to BGNet from off-campus computers, Kania said.

Whitmire said the Help Center also answers questions regarding what kind of computers parents should buy for their children.

Frequently asked questions are available on the University's web page to give students the opportunity to help themselves, according to Whitmire.

UCS serves students, faculty and staff by supporting mainframe, microcomputer and mini-computer levels, according to Singer.

"We support centralized computing on campus," he said.

UCS supports about 14 labs, which are available for student or instructional use, Singer said. This number does not include residence hall computer labs, which are not run by UCS. Residence hall labs are maintained by Residential Computing Connection, located in Offenbauer Tower.

BG News Photo/JASON SUGGS

University Computer Services helps students answer computer-related questions. Many labs on campus will be open 24 hours within the next few weeks.

An instructional lab and technical writing lab are open in East Hall as well. The technical lab will be moved from University Hall, Singer said.

UCS provides service for departments throughout the University such as the financial aid office and the human resource department, Singer said.

The Computer Help Center also assists faculty, staff and graduate students in setting up accounts for web use, Kania said.

UCS also has a sales and rental area that offers a 35 percent discount on IBM or Apple computers, Whitmire said.

This discount does not guarantee, however, that the computer's price will be less than at an electronics store.

Administrator tells court students were short-changed

Superintendent claims students are disadvantaged.

The Associated Press

NEW LEXINGTON, Ohio (AP) — Trying not to sound ungrateful for millions of dollars of construction money and other aid the state has pumped into his small, cash-strapped district, Superintendent Donald Washburn still had a complaint.

"Our students continue to be disadvantaged," Washburn said Wednesday at a court hearing into whether the state has done enough to meet the Ohio Supreme Court's demand for a new school-funding system.

Washburn heads the Dawson-Bryant Local Schools, one of the original districts that challenged the way Ohio distributes state aid to schools in 1991. Its problems were cited in the Supreme Court's March 1997 ruling declaring the school-funding system unconstitutional.

He said state aid over the past seven years simply has not been enough to give his 1,400 students a fair shot at a college scholarship or decent paying job.

Washburn's comments came on the eighth day of testimony in a Perry County Common Pleas Court hearing expected to wrap up Thursday or Friday. Judge Linton Lewis Jr. was not expected to issue a decision until after the first of the year.

Washburn and William Phillips, executive director of the coalition of school districts challenging the funding system, both testified that they believed the state has fallen well short of meeting the court's order.

Asked whether he thought his district, located in a pocket of poverty near the West Virginia and Kentucky lines, was providing an adequate education, Washburn responded: "No, we are not."

Lynn Readey, assistant attorney general, pointed out that Dawson-Bryant paid only $2.5 million toward a $14.5 million construction project and has received a 51.6 percent increase in state aid between 1991 and 1998.

"Would you agree that the Dawson-Bryant school district is better off today than it was seven years ago?" she asked Washburn.

"Our budget is higher ... as are expenses," Washburn replied. He also noted that the district's teachers make $10,000 less than the state average.

In addition, he said the district still doesn't have enough classrooms in its elementary school, needs a science lab to help prepare middle schoolers for stricter new academic performance standards and is $60,000 short of what is needed to remove an underground oil storage tank.

A 3-1 victory in Tuesday night's match made it 19 straight against the Rockets in Anderson Arena.

The Falcons have 35 wins and only seven losses all-time against their archrivals.

BG came out of the gate slowly. Toledo was up in the first game 10-3. The Falcons kept chipping away at the lead, surpassing the Rockets at 14-13.

Toledo tied it back up after several sideouts by both teams. With freshman Chris Shepherd serving, BG pulled the game out, 16-14, with two straight points.

The Falcons carried that momentum into the second game by building a 10-2 lead. Theresa Estes came off of the bench to serve five straight points for the Rockets. This cut the Falcons' lead to 10-7. BG came right back and put the game away for a 15-7 win.

Up two games to none, the Falcons relaxed a little too much in game three.

Toledo appeared to be gaining back momentum as they jumped out to a 12-3 lead. BG continued to look lathargic as they quickly lost game three 15-5.

Game four looked a lot like game three with one exception: the teams switched roles. This time, BG regained their composure and jumped out to a fast 12-3 lead.

Krista Davis came up big in game four. She had four of her five kills in this final game. After two quick kills by Toledo's Lauren Waldrop cut the lead to 12-5, BG finished the match. With Heather Greig serving, the Falcons scored three straight.

Melissa Lewis had a particularly effective night. She stepped up and led the Falcons with 16 kills.

Greig also had an excellent game. She quarterbacked the offense with precise passing. She had 34 assists.

"I felt very good tonight," said Greig. "We have great team chemistry. With all the juniors, we really know each other and how each other plays."

Lori Kemerer also commented on the team play.

"We played as a team tonight," Kemerer said. "We had a lot of goals for tonight and met every one of them."

Kemerer had a strong game of her own. She showed leadership by adding 10 kills.

The service game seemed to be a key in the match. Toledo was sloppy while serving. They totalled 17 service errors.

Freshman Chris Shepherd started the game and made an impact (See related story).

This was a great start to the Falcon volleyball season.

"It's good to start off with a win," commented Coach Denise Van De Walle. "Even though this Chris Shepherd was all smiles Tuesday night as she came off the court.

The first-year freshman from nearby Northwood played a key role for the Falcons in the victory over Toledo. Shepherd played in all four games, rarely being substituted.

In her first intercollegiate match, she led the team with 16 digs, including two key digs in the final game. The 5'8" Shepherd also put down four kills.

With a somewhat youthful squad, BG must call on younger players to step up. Chris Shepherd did exactly that for the game.

"I was really nervous," Shepherd said. "I was worried about (not performing well)."

Despite that, Shepherd was fearless attacking the ball with 18 total attempts. The Falcons helped the cause, scoring 15 points on Shepherd's serve.

Shepherd believes her main role on the team is as a defensive specialist. The left side hitter and defensive specialist kept the BG fans smiling with good defensive play and hustle.

Falcon coach Denise Van De Walle also was satisfied with the play of Shepherd.

"Chris had a big night," said Van De Walle. "By game four, I was very impressed with her backcourt."

After a successful career at Northwood, Shepherd is looking to have that same success in the orange and brown at BG.

"I'm a lot more technical," Shepherd said. "I concentrate on passing a lot more."

After the game, a group of fans and relatives surrounded Shepherd, giving her hugs and compliments. Shepherd was happy to have so much support on her side for her first game.

The Bowling Green women's soccer team started their season off on a winning note defeating Valparaiso 2-1 Tuesday.

The goals were scored by Michelle Lisy and Mackenzie Williams, both occurring in the second half of play.

Lisy's goal was unassisted, while sophomore Janice Mentrup assisted Williams on her goal.

"I knew we were all tied up," Williams said. "The ball came at my feet so I took a shot. It hit the 90 degree (upper part) area."

Williams also credited the weeks of preseason as keys to the victory.

Falcon head coach Tom Piccirillo credited the second half as a big key.

"Valparaiso got up on us 1-0 at half-time but we came back strong in the second half and got two goals that gave us the lead and eventually the victory," Piccirillo said. "We had a lot of positive things go our way this game and this should give us a good momentum boost going into this weekend's games."

After the victory, the team feels good about their upcoming games against Western Illinois and Robert Morris this weekend.

Freshman goalie Sarah Gawel made nine saves during the game and a few crucial ones down the stretch in the second half.

"We played very well for the first game and dominated the entire game," Gawel said. "We felt that the score should have been bigger, but it was a good win being that this was our first game played as a team outside of the scrimmages."

Cavanaugh also had a good game, blocking nineteen shots by the Falcons.

"Their keeper had a great game," Piccirillo said. "Michelle Lisy was able to score in the eleventh minute of the second half to tie the game for us."

Tom Piccirillo

The games at Mickey Cochrane field start at 1 p.m. Saturday and 2 p.m. Sunday.

"We played well as a team," Falcon junior Michelle Lisy said. "We're looking good for the weekend and hoping to come away with winning the tournament."

For the tournament, Williams said the team needs to work on its shots and teamwork.

"We're getting shots," Williams said. "They need to be more accurate and we need to finish them better. We still have to work together. It's going to get better each game. (Now), we have a real strong defense."

McGwire passes Hank - 3 to go

□ The St. Louis first-baseman cranks out two more in chase of Roger Maris' record of 61 homers.

By The Associated Press

MIAMI — Mark McGwire sat at a table in the postgame news conference, wearing a satisfied smile and a sleeveless shirt, leaning on arms strong enough to break a record.

Massive muscles help to explain McGwire's prodigious power, but the question persists: How can someone hit so many home runs so far?

Skeptics keep trying to taint his achievements. The controversy over home-run supplements in his locker has faded, including false rumors that he displays a photo of the Florida Marlins pitching staff. So how about this: Maybe it has become too easy to hit home runs.

The issue came up Tuesday night after McGwire homered twice against hapless Florida to break Hack Wilson's National League record of 56 home runs in a season. Someone asked what this year's power surge says about the state of pitching.

McGwire treated the question like a hanging curveball.

"Who cares?" the St. Louis Cardinals slugger said. "This is history, right? If something great is going to happen, why do we have to critique it and say, 'Why did they do it? What's wrong with it? Instead of accepting what's happening and saying, 'Hey, this is a great thing happening in America.'

"Just let it happen. Ride the wave. Enjoy it while it's happening. We don't know if this will ever happen again."

Mark McGwire

"Just let it happen. Ride the wave. Enjoy it while it's happening. We don't know if this will ever happen again."

The man making history has developed a keen appreciation for it. Tuesday and Wednesday's show of force against the worst pitching staff in the NL left McGwire only two home runs behind Roger Maris' 37-year-old major-league record of 61.

He has 59 with 23 games remaining and has hit as many as 15 in September. Matching that total this month would give him 70.

The race to surpass Maris isn't over, however. Sammy Sosa of the Chicago Cubs had 56 homers through Wednesday, and Ken Griffey Jr. of the Seattle Mariners and Greg Vaughn of San Diego began the night with 47 each.

"I would not rule out Ken Griffey," McGwire said. "The man is going to get hot. There's a great possibility that it's going to be two or three guys doing something that people are waiting for."

Sosa was tied with McGwire for 24 hours, then went 0-for-4 and struck out three times Tuesday.

"Now it's getting a little exciting," Sosa said before McGwire played Wednesday night. "Mark has 57 and that's a lot. Everybody knows that everybody is pulling for Mark, and I'm pulling for Mark, too. And I want him to break the record first."

Wilson's 68-year-old NL mark was erased in electrifying fashion. Mighty Mac overtook Hack with a pair of majestic clouts that traveled an estimated 450 and 472 feet to center field — impressive even for the Paul Bunyan of batters.

"All you can do is turn around and see where the ball lands," said Livan Hernandez, who gave up the first homer. "When he hits it, you've got to watch it."

An 11-year-old Little League outfielder and a 17-year-old part-time magician recovered the souvenirs and gave them to McGwire in exchange for autographed balls, bats, jerseys, photos and tickets to another game. A banked tarp beyond the center-field wall.

USA Hockey notices two Falcons

□ Shawn Timm and Ryan Murphy are being considered for U.S. National Junior team.

By WILLIAM SANDERSON
The BG News

For two BG hockey players, a life's dream is just one step away. That dream is to wear the red, white and blue in international competition.

Goalie Shawn Timm and forward Ryan Murphy, both sophomores, participated in the U.S.A. Hockey Summer Challenge. On the line was an opportunity to represent the United States at the biggest Junior hockey tournament in the world.

The USA Hockey Summer Challenge is essentially a try out camp for the U.S. Junior National team that will compete in the International Ice Hockey Federation's World Junior Championships that take place in late December.

"It's a life long dream for me to be able to represent my country," Murphy said. "Just putting on the sweater was unbelievable. My first game I had so much energy when I went out there."

The two week event ended in a round robin tournament that features teams from Switzerland, Sweden and Finland. The Americans were divided into East and West teams.

The best American players under the age of 20 were invited to take part. Among those invited were David Legwand, Scott Gomez and Mike Rupp, who were all first round picks in the 1998 NHL draft.

"It's unbelievable, playing against guys who are first rounders in the NHL draft," Murphy said. "It's a once in a lifetime experience. It's going to affect the rest of my career in hockey."

Despite the tough competition, Murphy and Timm put in good showings.

Murphy appears to have made a good impression on the USA Hockey coaches. Playing for USA East, he scored a goal in the game against Sweden and played well through the tournament.

The US National junior team seems to be a realistic possibility.

"Overall, I just played consistently and opened a lot of eyes," Murphy said. "At the end of the two weeks, the coaches said I had a great chance to make the team."

On USA West, Timm was 1-1 in the games he played in. In his first game, tournament champion Finland won an 8-5 slugfest.

Finland's team included 15 players who had been drafted by the NHL.

Timm rebounded with a good game against Switzerland in the bronze medal game. With a slim 2-1 lead, he made stops on a couple of break aways helping to preserve what ended in a 4-1 victory.

"The coaches were happy with the way I played," Timm said. "They told me not to worry about the first game. They know I'm a better goalie than that. That save (against Switzerland) probably helped turn that game around for us"

USA Hockey will monitor how the season goes for Timm and Murphy as well as all the other invitees and then make a final decision in mid-December.

"I think that if I go out and have a good first half of the season, I don't see why I shouldn't make the team," Timm said. "The other goalies up there were definitely good goalies, but I think I have an edge on them."

Whether Murphy and Timm make the U.S. Junior National team or not, the two week experience undoubtedly improved them as hockey players. Knowing they can play with the best players in the country can only help.

"You get a chance to be around the elite players for your age group," BG coach Buddy Powers said. "You can evaluate yourself versus your peers and based on what happens there come back with an inner self-confidence that you can play this game pretty well."

Last year for Bowling Green, Murphy had three goals and nine assists in 36 games. Timm was 6-15-2 with a goals against average of 3.77.

Powers thought the experience was particularly good for Murphy after last year.

"(Murphy) is a guy that with maturity is going to be an excellent college hockey player," Powers said. "This could be a jump start for him."

The only note of disappointment for Timm and Murphy was not getting to compete against each other. For the USA West's 2-1 victory over USA East, Timm was sitting in the stands.

"Ryan would have been out there to score on me and I would have been watching for him," Timm said.

one didn't count, anytime we play Toledo, it counts in our hearts. And though this wasn't a league match, it was a 'W' in the books and keeps the streak alive at 19. It's going to give us a good look at what we need to improve on."

By continuing their streak against Toledo, BG has put themselves in a good position heading into this weekend's Kaepa Invitational tournament in Chicago. They will face four opponents in two days including: Loyola (Ill.), Cal State Northridge, Boston Colleges and Marquette.

Garciaparra and Boston come back to beat Mariners □ Garciaparra hits 30th HR as Boston overcame a 3-0 deficit in win over Seattle.

By Associated Press

BOSTON — Nomar Garciaparra joined Mark McGwire as one of five players to hit 30 homers in each of his first two seasons when his ninth-inning grand slam gave the Boston Red Sox a 7-3 win Wednesday night over the Seattle Mariners.

The Red Sox overcame a 3-0 deficit and a 15-hit attack and won with just six hits to maintain their eight-game lead in the AL wild-card race over Texas, which beat Detroit.

The winning burst against Bobby Ayala (1-10) began when third baseman Russ Davis dropped a backhanded stab at Mike Benjamin's grounder for an error. Darren Lewis walked, the runners moved up on Darren Bragg's sacrifice bunt and Mo

Senior Missouri quarterback Corby Jones is expected to lead the Tigers to another winning season.

Jones maturing fast

Family tragedy will affect Jones for a highly anticipated 1998.

By TOD McCLOSKEY
The BG News

This past year Corby Jones went through the best and worst of times.

Missouri's senior star quarterback broke 12 school records in leading the team to a Holiday bowl berth.

He's proven himself in big games.

Last year only a miracle separated Missouri from awin over eventual co-national champion Nebraska. So things were great for Jones.

Then on July 26, as Jones was preparing himself for the 1998 season — a life storm hit him. Corby's father and Missouri assistant coach, Curtis Jones, died of a heart attack.

Never mind that the Tigers just came off their best season since 1983.

Commentary

Never mind the expectations and pressure Missouri fans will put on Jones, now a Heisman candidate.

Jones will deal with his father's death in his own way, away from the journalists and fans who will want to know what effect this will have on his mental strength.

Football may not seem so important to Jones as it once did. How much will his father's death affect the way he plays?

As fans or critics, we really don't have the right to ask questions like that.

And how important is sports, (and football) that we put it above people's feelings and emotions? Ask Corby Jones. I'm sure he deals with it all the time.

As the starting quarterback for one of the most-anticipated teams this year, Jones must learn how to deal with his father's death quickly, given the expectations people are putting on him.

And Tiger fans are expecting a lot. There is a belief in college football that your senior year should be your best.

But Missouri fans should remember one thing. Yes, Jones is one of the best quarterbacks in the country. Yes, he can run the option as well as anyone else in the country.

And he can pass, but don't compare his first performance against Bowling Green, good or bad, to his father's death — that's not fair.

I'm sure Corby would trade touchdown passes and a Big 12 Conference title, if he could have his father back again.

Jones has matured this offseason, more than he wanted to. He may be ready for the Falcons on Saturday, but winning the game probably isn't the most important thing on his mind.

Anaheim rocks Bartolo Colon as Angels pound Cleveland

Colon had his shortest outing of the year.

The Associated Press

CLEVELAND — Randy Velarde homered and had four hits as the Anaheim Angels rocked Bartolo Colon with seven runs in the first two innings Wednesday night in a 13-5 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

Gregg Jefferies tied his career high with four hits and drove in three runs, and Jim Edmonds had three hits including a 415-foot, three-run homer in the second — a crushing blow to the sputtering Indians.

Colon (13-8) had his shortest outing this year and second shortest of his career, lasting only one inning plus five batters. He allowed seven runs and nine hits.

The 23-year-old Dominican is 4-4 with a 5.94 ERA since appearing in his first All-Star game.

The AL West-leading Angels matched their season high with 21 hits and sent a strong message to a possible playoff opponent. Anaheim, seeking its first winning September since 1991, won six of 10 games on a tough trip to

New York, Boston and Cleveland.

But the Angels also lost first baseman Darin Erstad to another hamstring injury. Erstad is day-to-day after straining his left hamstring while running out a two-run single in the first. He was on the disabled list from Aug. 4-19 with the same injury — also sustained against Cleveland.

The Indians dropped to 10-10 since Aug. 13 and allowed at least 10 runs for the fourth time during that span and third time since last Friday. Despite a 26-27 record since the All-Star break, Cleveland maintains a double-digit lead over Kansas City in the weak AL Central.

Knuckleballer Steve Sparks (9-2) held Cleveland at bay until allowing two runs in the seventh on Manny Ramirez's 35th homer and an RBI double by Brian Giles, cutting it to 13-5.

Sparks allowed five runs and eight hits in 6 2-3 innings, walking five and striking out two. He has won nine of 11 big league decisions after going 0-8 in the minors this year.

Anaheim led 2-1 after the first on Erstad's two-run single.

Rangers down hapless

By Associated Press

DETROIT — Rick Helling threw a lot of pitches, which worried Texas manager Johnny Oates. Still, he had more than enough zip on his fastball to hold off the Detroit Tigers.

"I think Rick showed very good stamina," Oates said after the Rangers' 5-3 victory Wednesday night. "His stuff was as good in the seventh as it was in the first."

"I was concerned about his pitch count, though. We've still got a lot of big innings we need him to pitch for us."

Helling (17-7) threw 134 pitches before giving way to Xavier Hernandez after 6 1-3 innings. He gave up one run on six hits with four walks and seven strikeouts, becoming the first Texas pitcher since Kenny Rogers in 1995 to win 17 games.

"I'm not going to leave anything on the field," said Helling, who started the season 6-0. "My pitch count might be high, but I'm going to give them everything I've got."

Helling felt the key might have come in the second inning when Detroit had the bases loaded with one out. Helling got Kimera Barteo on a pop fly and got Frank Catalanotto swinging on a full count.

Moehler pitching for them, who is capable of throwing a shutout, you know you can't afford to give up many runs," Helling said. "So I thought that was probably the most important inning — to get out of that without giving up any runs."

Helling got offensive support from Ivan Rodriguez, who snapped a 1-for-11 slump with two hits, including a two-run homer.

"Moehler usually keeps the ball down," Rodriguez said. "But that ball was up and I took advantage of it and hit it to the opposite field."

The win enabled Texas, 26-26 since the All-Star break, to remain 2 1/2 games behind first-place Anaheim in the AL West.
